

Publication: Palm Beach Daily News; Date: Feb 7, 2016; Section: Main; Page: A12

Gita Costa and Karyn Lamb

Frances Fisher and Beth Pine

Gardens Conservancy gets chic with fashion show

An Oscar de la Renta fashion show highlighted a luncheon of the Gardens Conservancy, a special membership group of the Ann Norton Sculpture Gardens.

The event took place Jan. 20 at Neiman Marcus.

The afternoon — which honored conservancy members, celebrated the recent opening of the gardens' Flowers exhibition and served as a kickoff for the conservancy's April cocktail reception — included a Champagne reception, lunch at tables set among racks displaying pieces from the Oscar de la Renta spring-summer line, and remarks from general manager Beth Pine and Frances Fisher, founding chairwoman of the conservancy.

Launched in 2014, the Gardens Conservancy is a membership and stewardship program with a mission to enhance educational programs and cultural awareness of the gardens.

Author Jack Staub will debut his book Private Gardens of South Florida at the April 1 cocktail reception. Of the 22 gardens featured in the book, nine are in Palm Beach.

More than 40 people attended. Proceeds benefit the Ann Norton Sculpture Gardens, www.ansg.org.

— sdonnelly@pbdailynews.com
Twitter: @pbdnsociety

Renny Reynolds and Jack Staub

Diana Bell and Gabrielle Taylor

Deborah O'Kain and Helene Lorentzen

Katrina Lee and Brenda Swanson

Caroline Harless and Mona DeSayre

Margaret Costello and Polly Reed

Susie Belton and Suzanne Frisbie

Christine Goodman and Mina Patel

Shelley Menin and Dede Merck

Sarah Benitz and Afsy Pottash

Story by Shannon Donnelly / Meghan McCarthy, Daily News Photos