Christine Conti, (left) skills lab coordinator for the Palm Beach Atlantic University School of Nursing, and Kristen Gagne, simulation coordinator, demonstrate a patient care situation with AKAMU, the simulation man. The up-close and personal look at live simulation training was staged for nearly 100 guests of the Palm Healthcare Foundation who attended a private showing of the South Florida Science Center's newest exhibit, "Our Body: The Universe Within." The demonstration was designed to illustrate the importance of simulation training in preparing nurses to care for patients during stressful, life-threatening situations. Joining students from Palm Beach County Title 1 schools for the Ann Norton Sculpture Gardens' annual Garden Day were (from left) Cindy Sulzberger, board of trustees member at ANSG; Carrie Bertram with Garden of Life; Andy Sauber with Florida Crystals; and Frances Fisher, board president at ANSG. Presented by Florida Crystals and Garden of Life, the hands-on outdoor experience showed students how a garden works. CONTRIBUTED BY CAPEHART PHOTOGRAPHY

Je Cynthia Nonar (right), a senior at Glades High School and member of the Boys & Girls Club, recently hosted the Glades Teen Summit, which drew more than 250 teens and community members. Nonar was given $15,000 from the Palm Beach Philanthropy Tank last year to fund her proposal to unite teens and officials in a public dialogue. Joining her at the event was Danielle H. Moore, a Palm Beach Philanthropy Tank Philanthropist-Investor who has mentored Nonar.

Among those enjoying the recent Sip and Shop event hosted by the Dressage Connection of Wellington were (from left) Danielle Gallagher, Karen Pavlicic, Sahar Daniel Hirosh and Beth Palmgren of Overview Farm.
